

2023 LEGISLATIVE PRIORITIES

CONTINUE BUILDING A COMPETITIVE TAX CLIMATE

Kentucky has revolutionized its tax code in recent legislative sessions with major pro-growth reforms to business taxes and a bold plan to reduce and phase out individual income taxes. 2023 presents an opportunity to build on this important work by following through on phasing out the individual income tax, positioning the state for future reforms to business taxes, and improving the competitiveness of local taxing structures throughout the Commonwealth.

FURTHER INVESTMENT IN KENTUCKY'S INFRASTRUCTURE

A continued commitment to investing in infrastructure is critical in order to spur job growth and protect Kentucky's status as a global logistics hub. While the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act from 2021 was a huge win for Kentucky at the federal level, further investment in local roads and bridges is needed to keep the Commonwealth competitive with surrounding states. Six of seven states bordering Kentucky have made moves to up their commitment to infrastructure in the past five years, and we cannot afford to be left behind.

FOSTER ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ACROSS KENTUCKY

While 2021 and 2022 marked historic levels of growth and investment in Kentucky, policymakers must focus on fostering economic development across the Commonwealth, especially in rural communities and areas affected by recent natural disasters. This should include collaborative planning and strategic pro-growth policies aimed at encouraging population growth, improving quality of life, and attracting economic investments and jobs in every corner of Kentucky.

IMPROVE LIABILITY CLIMATE

Kentucky's liability climate is a major barrier to economic growth and costly to consumers. Lawmakers should pass meaningful reforms to Kentucky's legal liability system and block legislation that can worsen conditions by driving up litigation costs and slowing the process by which parties resolve cases.

GROW KENTUCKY'S SIGNATURE INDUSTRIES

Lawmakers should ensure that signature industries in Kentucky can flourish by working with leaders from the agricultural, bourbon, and equine sectors to ensure regulations are designed to foster growth, not impede it. The Chamber will continue to advocate for fair treatment of the distilling industry when it comes to taxation, for sports betting to be administered by the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission to keep that industry competitive, and against gray machines, a non-regulated entity operating in gas stations and convenience stores across the state.

SOLVE THE WORKFORCE CRISIS

The 2022 General Assembly took important steps to address Kentucky's dwindling workforce. It is critical to expand on these efforts to continue a multifaceted approach to solving our workforce crisis.

CHILD CARE: Build on recent efforts to address child care affordability and capacity through a mixed-delivery model by ensuring the sector's stability, addressing child care workforce challenges, and supporting employer-led efforts like the Employee Child Care Assistance Partnership.

BENEFITS CLIFFS: Provide productive pathways and supports for Kentuckians to transition off of public benefits and achieve upward mobility and self-sufficiency.

RE-ENTRY & RECOVERY: Remove barriers to success for Kentuckians in recovery from substance use disorder or with criminal backgrounds by encouraging fair-chance hiring and professional licensing, making expungement more accessible, and ensuring exiting inmates have photo IDs.

POSTSECONDARY: Invest in higher education to increase postsecondary attainment, make FAFSA a requirement for high school graduation, and expand KEES eligibility for nontraditional education paths.

HEALTH: Improve Kentucky's health outcomes by reducing smoking rates, raising the cigarette tax, and removing smokers as a protected class.

RESOURCES ALIGNMENT: Support the success of Kentucky's workforce development programs through improved resource alignment, tracking workforce spending, and evaluating programs for return on investment.

POLITICAL AND BUSINESS NEWS
FROM THE KENTUCKY CHAMBER

POLITICS AND TOP POLICY PRIORITIES DISCUSSED AT 2023 KENTUCKY CHAMBER Legislative Preview Conference

Over 300 business leaders gathered at the Kentucky Chamber’s Legislative Preview Conference, presented by Westlake Corporation, in November to hear from legislators and the governor on top issues heading into the 2023 session.

Lawmakers provided an update on how last year’s tax reform legislation will impact the Commonwealth, which starts with a reduction in Kentucky’s income tax from 5 to 4.5 percent.

House Appropriations and Revenue Committee Chair Jason Petrie said every half point the income tax lowers, $600 million remains in the pockets of Kentuckians. He said “those are simply investments” when talking about the impact that has on local communities across the Commonwealth.

Senate President Robert Stivers, House Speaker David Osborne, and Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Ashli Watts discussed the outcomes of the 2022 election, also pointing out that 2023 will be the first time in four years that the legislature will not craft a budget.

Coming off the most recent elections, Representatives-elect Amy Neighbors and Wade Williams and Senator-elect Amanda Bledsoe joined freshmen lawmakers Reps. Keturah Herron and Sarge Pollack to talk about their priorities for office, their experiences on the campaign trail, and much more.

Lawmakers from regions that have seen major devastation over the past year, including Reps. Richard Heath, John Blanton, and Angie Hatton, and Sen. Jason Howell, discussed where things stand in their regions, how communities are rebuilding, and how to build upon the progress of legislation passed in 2022.

Providing an update one year after passage of the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, Kentucky Transportation Cabinet Secretary Jim Gray highlighted that federal funding has increased from $700 million to $900 million as a result of the legislation.

Senate Majority Floor Leader Damon Thayer and House Majority Floor Leader Steven Rudy discussed the monumental new laws in Kentucky around tax reform, unemployment insurance reforms, school choice, child care, and much more.

Join the Kentucky Chamber for its 2023 Small Business Day at the Capitol! Don’t miss the opportunity to network with small business leaders from across the state, have discussions with key legislators, and watch Chamber leaders testify on top issues in front of the House Small Business and IT Committee.

During his address, Governor Beshear thanked Kentucky businesses for doing their very best during the pandemic and recognized Kentuckians for coming together during the recent natural disasters.

“We are at a fundamental moment where we have a chance to truly improve the Commonwealth and be a top ten state economy,” Beshear said.

SENSE OF BELONGING FOR ALL KENTUCKIANS EMPHASIZED AT INAUGURAL

Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion Summit

More than 400 Kentuckians gathered for the Kentucky Chamber's Inaugural Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DE&I) Summit, presented by Frost Brown Todd, to have conversations on business practices, supplier diversity, education, and much more.

U.S. Chamber Senior Vice President of Strategic Alliances and Outreach Rick Wade kicked off the conference by noting that DE&I cannot become a political football and instead the country must focus on the fact that everyone benefits when the equity gap is closed.

In a panel about the role of public policy in fostering DE&I in the Commonwealth, lawmakers highlighted the recent work of the General Assembly to establish the Commission on Race and Access to Opportunity to begin holding vitally important conversations and bring necessary data to the forefront.

Supplier diversity is a crucial area that companies across the state and nation are taking a harder look at in recent years. During the summit, a panel with representatives from Women's Business Enterprise Council Ohio River Valley, the University of Kentucky, Equity Solutions Group, Louisville Metro Sewer District, and the Kentucky Department of Education discussed the importance, impact, and barriers to making those efforts a reality.

Frost Brown Todd Chief Diversity Officer Chris Johnson offered the keynote on how the DE&I space is evolving, and the work must involve transparency, community, well-being and psychological safety, social responsibility and sustainability, employee engagement, and authenticity.

EMPLOYERS CAN APPLY FOR

Employee Child Care Assistance Soon

In 2022, the Kentucky General Assembly passed legislation to create the Employee Child Care Assistance Partnership (House Bill 499). Through this program, employers can partner with the state to provide financial assistance to employees struggling with the cost of quality child care. The program offers employers a powerful employee attraction and retention tool and an opportunity to double the size of an employee benefit with assistance from the state.

As the Cabinet prepares to roll out the Employee Child Care Assistance Partnership in the coming months, find out several key steps employers should be taking now.

KENTUCKY SPORTS RADIO, KENTUCKY CHAMBER FOUNDATION PRESENT DONATIONS TO KENTUCKY HABITAT FOR HUMANITY AND VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA TO Help Rebuild & Support Communities Impacted by Tornadoes

To support recovery from the December 2021 tornadoes, Kentucky Sports Radio (KSR) and the Kentucky Chamber Foundation presented a $951,000 donation to Kentucky Habitat for Humanity on October 27 in Dawson Springs and a $700,000 donation to Volunteers of America Mid-States (VOA) on January 5 in Owensboro.

Following the devastating tornados in December 2021, the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and KSR partnered to create the KSR Tornado Relief Fund, which raised almost $1.7 million from more than 7,100 individuals, businesses, and groups across the world.

In conjunction with the fundraiser, the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and KSR hosted a roundtable event that brought together local elected officials, nonprofit organizations, charities, and other leaders to coordinate recovery efforts and meet the needs of the impacted areas.

“One of our major concerns after the tornadoes was that if Habitat did not respond quickly and boldly, families would have little option but to move away from their communities, friends, families, and jobs,” said Kentucky Habitat for Humanity Executive Director Mary Shearer. “With support from the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and KSR, we can now work together to rebuild not only homes but also assist communities and help rebuild lives.”

“We are so thankful to our partners at Kentucky Sports Radio and the Kentucky Chamber. In 2021 they sent significant funds to support survivors of the tornadoes in Western and Central Kentucky. This generous gift will help VOA expand our nationally-recognized Freedom House program and continue to help more Kentucky families take back their lives and overcome substance use disorder,” said VOA Mid-States President and CEO Jennifer Hancock.

The donation to VOA will support residential beds and treatment resources at Freedom Houses for Kentuckians that have been directly affected by the tornadoes as well as funding for a workforce re-entry specialist to help Kentuckians impacted by tornadoes get back into the workforce.

BIDEN, MCCONNELL, AND BESHEAR APPEAR TOGETHER TO TOUT Brent Spence Bridge Corridor Project

In late December, U.S. Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell, Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear, and Ohio Governor Mike DeWine announced that the Brent Spence Bridge Corridor Project was awarded over $1.6 billion in federal grants and funding.

During the first week of January, President Joe Biden appeared with Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell, Gov. Beshear, and several other high-profile officials in Covington to tout the funding secured for the project, which will improve the flow of traffic between Ohio and Kentucky.

“For decades, people have been talking about the Brent Spence Bridge,” Biden said. “But folks, talking is over. Through the bipartisan infrastructure law, we’re finally going to get it done.”

“The Kentucky Chamber has long advocated at both the state and federal levels for increased investment in our Commonwealth’s infrastructure,” Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Ashli Watts said in a statement following the announcement. “We knew in order to secure funding for the Brent Spence Bridge Corridor Project, one of the most significant infrastructure undertakings in the country, it would take members of our state and federal delegation working across party lines. We appreciate President Biden, Leader McConnell, Governor Beshear, the Kentucky

General Assembly, and everyone else who had a hand in making this project a reality.”

Constructed in the 1960s, the Brent Spence Bridge was designed to carry around 80,000 vehicles a day, but the daily traffic load on Interstate Highways 75 and 71 has doubled to reach 160,000 vehicles in recent years.

Project plans call for the construction of a companion bridge to the west of the existing Brent Spence Bridge, as well as improvements to the current bridge and the roadway network that ties into each river crossing.

This announcement comes one year after Congress passed the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, which, over five years, will deliver billions of dollars to Kentucky to improve the Commonwealth’s roads, bridges, airports, railroads, waterways, broadband and more.

KENTUCKY CHAMBER
FOUNDATION’S CENTER FOR DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION

Celebrates One Year
Anniversary

In its first year, the Kentucky Chamber Foundation's Center for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DE&I) has led robust efforts to build an inclusive and equitable Commonwealth.

In 2021, the Foundation hired Joe Frazier as the executive director of the Center for DE&I to spearhead the Chamber’s efforts to engage and educate business leaders, transform workplaces, and create meaningful, long-term change.

The Center for DE&I has established a task force of more than 35 business, education, and civic leaders with the goal of launching and advancing initiatives that will lead the business community to create a stronger future for all Kentuckians.

“I am so proud of the many accomplishments the Center for DE&I has had in its first year. The success we have already seen in this program is such a strong testament to the critical need for this work in Kentucky,” said Kentucky Chamber Foundation's Center for DE&I Interim Chair Kim Sweazy, Community Relations and External Affairs Analyst at Toyota Motor Manufacturing North America.

One of the major initiatives of the Center for DE&I has been to provide ways for businesses to diversify their supply chains and promote minority-owned businesses. As part of this effort, the Foundation launched the Kentucky Minority-Owned Business Database—the first-ever centralized listing of all certified minority-owned businesses across the Commonwealth.

Recently, the Center for DE&I expanded its staff to help continue and advance the organization’s initiatives, hiring Nathan Bird and Darleen Horton as senior program managers.
